PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM (PDP)*Targeted Groups/Eligibility:

- U.S. Citizen
- College graduate or Graduate School graduate, entry-level employees
- The selected staffing approach depends on your education, experience, and interests, and is decided before you are offered a position at GAO.

Application Dates

Depends on Congress and the President

Description

In your first 2 years with GAO, your PDP experience includes a combination of on-the-job and classroom training, regular feedback and coaching, and exposure to different projects and management styles. An advisor periodically meets with you to provide guidance and assistance to help you adjust to the organization and GAO's work. Your advisor will help you create an Individual Development Plan (IDP) that identifies your professional goals, outlines your preferred assignments, and sets time frames for attending classroom training. Advisors also talk with managers and supervisors to ensure that you will receive appropriate feedback, coaching, and on-the-job-training. In addition, the PDP provides the opportunity for enriching activities, including orientation sessions, a speakers program, "shadowing" of senior staff, congressional hearings, and mentoring. Further, while in the program you are eligible to receive salary increases based on performance every 6 months.

Projects assignments are based on a combination of GAO's needs and your background and interests. The PDP will place you in various project assignments after discussions with you and with GAO team representatives to ensure your exposure to different issues and managers during your first 2 years.

You will either

1. be assigned to one team to work on different projects within that team's area of specialization or
2. rotate among several teams to work on projects in different subject areas.

*Government Printing Office (GPO)LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM (LDR)*Targeted Group/Eligibility

- U.S. Citizen
- Bachelor's, Master's or PhD degree.
- Leadership Skills and/or Experience.

Application Dates

Mid-December through late January

Description

The Leadership Development Program is a two year program consisting of formal classroom training, on-the-job training, E-training, and developmental projects and assignments. The LDR program participants will have the benefit of trained and experienced mentors and will do four 5 1/2 month rotational assignments in the various lines of business. On average 14 LDRs are selected each year from internal and external candidates. The selection of the individuals involved the use of three objectively weighed assessment instruments (Watson-Glaser test, the Cognitive Aptitude Test and an English Writing test) and a structured interview.

Rotational assignment plans (RAP sheets) are developed for each participant to ensure the activities and assignments are reinforcing specific leadership competencies. The RAP lists the activities, the competencies, and the method of measurement. The program starts with a three week orientation in late June 25th. The curriculum includes: communications style exercise, IT Security, Ethics, Six Sigma, Communicating with Diplomacy and Tact, introduction to our E-learning system, Leadership Roles, Managing Change, Understanding the Organizations Culture, Situational Leadership, and Mentor and Mentee Orientation. Prior to the start of the second rotation which begins in late January 28th, formal training is provided on: Conflict Management, Printing Processes and Terminology, Leading Change and Managing Breakthroughs, Project Management, Listening to the Voice of the Customer, MS Project Management, and Stress Management.

The LDRs volunteer to lead highly interactive reviews regarding Business and leadership theory. These book reviews require creativity and effective presentation skills. They have also included guest participants from other offices. Some of the books reviewed include:

- Five Star Leadership: the Art and Strategy of Creating Leaders at Every Level. (Patrick L. Townsend)
- Leading Project Teams (Anthony T. Cobb)
- The Essential Drucker (Peter F. Drucker)
- The Art of Project Management (Scott Berkun)
- The Wisdom of Teams (Jon R. Katzenbach, Douglas K. Smith)
- Leading in an Upside-Down World (Jack Patrick Boyer)
- Good to Great (Jim Collins)

Divided into three teams, the LDRs engage in Cross Function Projects which are assigned by the Chief of Staff and Chief of Operations. Past projects included:

- A Detailed Analysis of the Digital Print Center.
- Discovery to Recommend a Cost Effective, Efficient Access to GPO Information.
- Business Process Analysis--Code of Federal Regulation.

Application Dates

Deadlines are usually in October for the following year (e.g., 10/2008 deadline for 2009 class)

Description

The FBI Honors Internship Program offers undergraduate and graduate school students an exciting insider's view of FBI operations and provides an opportunity to explore the many career opportunities within the Bureau. The Honors Internship Program brings students to work at FBI Headquarters in Washington, D.C., and usually begins on the first Monday in June and ends on the second Friday in August. FBI Honors Interns can look forward to ten extremely rewarding and interesting weeks. You'll be working side-by-side with Special Agents and Professional Staff personnel on important cases and management issues. You'll feel like you're a part of the Bureau...because you are.

Honors Interns are assigned to an FBI Headquarters division based on their academic discipline, potential contribution to the division, and the needs of the FBI. For instance, Honors Interns whose discipline is in the physical sciences may be assigned to the FBI's Laboratory Division in nearby Quantico, Virginia. Honors Interns whose discipline is in information technology may be assigned to the FBI's Cyber Division or one of the FBI's IT divisions. All Honors Interns are under the supervision of the head (i.e., Assistant Director) of their assigned division.

By the end of your internship, you will have a thorough understanding of the inner workings of the FBI and a deep feeling of satisfaction that the work you have done has helped the lives of ordinary citizens. You will also learn about the many career opportunities at the FBI. No matter what career path you eventually choose, serving as an FBI Honors Intern will be an experience you will never forget, and one that will benefit you in all of your future endeavors.

*U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA)EPA INTERN PROGRAM (EIP)*Targeted Groups/Eligibility

- U.S. Citizen
- Those who have completed a Bachelor's degree. Grad students can apply as well.

Application Dates

2008 Fellowship Deadline is January 2008

Description

The EPA Intern Program (EIP) at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is a comprehensive, entry-level, professional, full-time employment and career development program. As a program participant, you will join an intensive two-year program to help you "jump-start" your career and develop your potential for future advancement within the Agency.

Attracting and retaining top-notch employees is crucial to the success of EPA. To foster both their personal and professional growth, EIPers participate in a two-year EPA familiarization and career development program. Key components of the program are:

- An Orientation Conference held in Washington, DC, to familiarize new EIPers with the Agency;
- Multiple rotational assignments, including an opportunity for a two-month rotation to a different geographic location;
- Individual Development Plans to serve as road maps for professional and personal development during the program and beyond;
- Site visits and group project to introduce the "hands-on" work of the Agency, such as research, monitoring, environmental clean-up, community involvement, compliance, and prevention;
- A Graduation Conference, featuring team training and environmental studies;
- On-going networking activities.

The EIP seeks graduates from Bachelors degree programs in a variety of academic majors, including, but not limited to:

- Biological Sciences and Ecology
- Chemistry and Physical Sciences
- Environmental Engineering
- Financial Management
- Public and Environmental Policy
- Business
- Computer Science
- Environmental Studies
- International Studies
- Public Administration

The objective of the program is to help Interns develop their potential for future advancement within EPA. When these positions are available, they are advertised at EPA at USAJobs. Applications are completed online with supplemental materials mailed to addresses noted in the application packages. THE WHITE HOUSE FELLOWS PROGRAM*Targeted Group/Eligibility

- U.S. Citizens
- Employees of the federal government are not eligible unless they are career military personnel.
- Applicants must have completed their undergraduate education and be working in their chosen professions.
- There are no formal age restrictions. However, the fellowship program was created to give selected Americans the experience of government service early in their careers.
- A record of remarkable professional achievement early in one's career.
- Evidence of leadership skills and the potential for further growth.
- A demonstrated commitment to public service.
- The knowledge and skills necessary to contribute successfully at the highest levels of the federal government.

Application Date

All applications for the 2008 class must be submitted online by February 1, 2008

Description

White House Fellows typically spend a year working as full-time, paid special assistants to senior White House Staff, the Vice President, Cabinet Secretaries and other top-ranking government officials. Fellows also participate in an education program consisting of roundtable discussions with renowned leaders from the private and public sectors, and trips to study U.S. policy in action both domestically and internationally. Fellowships are awarded on a strictly non-partisan basis.

The purpose of the White House Fellows program is to provide gifted and highly motivated young Americans with some first-hand experience in the process of governing the Nation and a sense of personal involvement in the leadership of society. Being a White House Fellow is a once-in-a-lifetime experience. Fellows work hand-in-hand with leaders at the highest levels of government. They enjoy informal, off-the-record meetings with leading representatives from the worlds of business, the arts, science and technology, media and politics. White House Fellows travel abroad to explore issues of global significance. They travel at home to see U.S. policy in action. And Fellows forge life-long friendships with the other remarkable men and women who share this unparalleled experience.

The White House Fellows Program is the nation's most prestigious fellowship for leadership development and public service.

- U.S. Citizen
- Any associate, undergrad or grad student enrolled for academic credit at an accredited educational institution

Application Dates

2008 Fellowship Deadline is January 2008

Description:

Each year, the NNEMS program offers fellowships developed and sponsored by EPA Headquarters in Washington, D.C. and in EPA's 10 regional offices and laboratories throughout the United States. The projects are specifically narrow in scope, allowing students to complete the fellowship while working full-time at EPA during the summer or part-time during the school year.

Recipients of NNEMS fellowships receive a stipend based on the student's level of education and the duration and location of the project. The purpose of the NNEMS program is to:

- Provide students with practical research opportunities and experiences in an EPA office or laboratory
- Increase public awareness of and involvement in environmental issues
- Encourage qualified individuals to pursue environmental careers
- Help defray the costs associated with the pursuit of academic programs related to the field of environmental protection, such as pollution control, science, engineering, technology, social science, and specialty areas
